

The Right Partner for Higher Education Executive Search

AGB Search has conducted more than 600 successful client engagements ranging from community colleges to small liberal arts colleges to large research institutions. We leverage our expertise and relationships in the industry to find the best candidates for every position.

Approximately 93 percent of our candidates stay in their positions for at least five years. We take great care to understand each institution's vision for their new leader and create a search plan to identify the best candidates for the position. We conduct comprehensive presearch meetings and research, extensive outreach to our networks to identify top candidates, and deep vetting of the candidate pool. Our team also provides needed support during the interview process, as well as through appointment of the new leader.

Focused on Leadership Transition Success

The roles of president and other senior leaders are the most critical positions at a college or university, and successful transition is integral to the long-term success of the team and the institution. AGB Search offers transition assistance to facilitate positive outcomes for the newly appointed president and other senior leaders, providing guidance on:

- Preparing the new leader to assume office
- Coordinating the introduction to the campus, key donors, and legislative and community leaders
- Transitioning the outgoing president in a meaningful and respectful manner
- Developing a productive working relationship between the new president and the board chair

"AGB Search stepped in at a challenging time in our presidential search and played an instrumental role in helping us find an outstanding leader for the University of Minnesota. They delivered!"
